FRENCH LICK

—AND—

WEST BADEN SPRINGS.

In the highlands of Indiana—a two hours ride from Louisville there flow wonderful healing waters, that you'd spend hundreds of dollars to enjoy if they were in Europe.

A recent visitor from Philadelphia, who formerly went to Carlsbad every year, said: "I do not see why anyone goes to Europe for medicinal waters. The water is as beneficial, and the scenery and surrounding country, the air and the opportunities for recreation are better; the hotels and accommodations are much finer at French Lick-West Baden Springs"—and this gentleman is a native of Switzerland.

The splendidly wooded hills with the cool, invigorating air of these highlands where one can enjoy rambles in the depths of the forest, or rides and drives among the numerous bridle paths and roadways, afford pleasure for those who desire rest and quite; while at the splendid and casinos one can have all the entertainment and social pleasures possible at the most fashionable resorts

WINCHESTER COURT—"The dullest court day in years," was the unanimous verdict Monday. Less than 100 cattle were offered and the sales were limited to a few cows and calves. About 1,200 sheep were offered, but many were left unsold. Fat weathers brought 2 3/4 cts.;
lambs, 3 1/2 cts.; mountain ewes, $3.65 each. A bunch of four mules sold for $3.85; two pairs of mules, $330 and
$212.50; suckling mules, $35 to $60.

Ben T. Willis made the following sales: Yearling mule, $100; horse, $97.50; filly, $85; twelve 230-lb. hogs to John D. Reese at $5.—Winchester Sun-Sentinel.

SHOT HIS FATHER.—W. A. Barnett, a Mercer county farmer, was shot by mistake and seriously wounded by his son, Ernest Barnett, late Saturday night. The father had left his son to guard a field against thieves and had instructed him to shoot any one who came inside the field. Later in the night the father awoke and concluded to go into the field and see how his son was getting along. He neglected to warn his son who fired, severely injuring his thigh.

at Forks of Elkhorn, in Scott county, of inflammation of the bowels. He belonged to Mr. Kinzea Stone, and was only at the farm during stud service.

NEARING COMPLETION.—The new State College, girls' dormitory, at Lexington, for the erection of which the State Legislature made an appropriation two years ago, is nearing completion. It was to have been ready for occupancy by October 1 and a part of it by September 1, but delay in getting brick has thrown the work behind, and there will be at least a thirty-days' delay.

Famous Beer.

The famous Windisch-Meklenburger
Brewing Co., of Cincinnati, has made itself famous the world over for its excellent quality of beers. The use of the 'P. de Lion Export' is no longer considered a luxury, but has been so generally recognized by physicians for its nutritive and health-giving qualities, that it has become a necessity. Those who have never used it to quench their thirst or experienced its exhilarating effects, should give this famous beer a trial, will pronounce it the criterion of all bottled beers.

We invite you to test the merits of our "Genuine Old Lager." It is a veritable boon to convalescents, nursing mothers, nerve-chief, and finally, though by no means last, important as a stimulant of cheerfulness, it is incomparable.

We would like to ask, through the columns of your paper, if there is any person who has used Green's August Flower, for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and Liver Trouble that has not been cured—and we also mean their results, such as sour stomach, fermentation of food, habitual constiveness, nervous dyspepsia, headaches, despondent feelings, sleeplessness—in fact, any trouble connected with the stomach or liver? This medicine has been sold for many years in all civilized countries, and we wish to correspond with you and send you one of our books free of cost. If you never tried August Flower, try a 25 cent bottle first. We have never known of its failing. If so, something more serious is the matter with you. The 25 cent size has just been introduced this year. Regular size 75 cents. W. T. Brooks.

Caution!

This is not a gentle word—but when you think how liable you are not to purchase the only remedy that has had the largest sale of any medicine in the world since 1868 for the cure and treatment of Consumption and Throat and Lung troubles without losing its great popularity all these years, you will be thankful we called your attention to Boesche's German Syrup. There are so many ordinary cough remedies made by druggists and others that are cheap and good for light colds perhaps, but for severe Coughs, Brouchitis, Croup—and especially for Consumption, where there is difficult expectoration and coughing during the nights and mornings, there is nothing like German Syrup. The 25 cent size has just been introduced this year. Regular size 75 cents.—W. T. Brooks.

TURKISH ATROCITIES.

Mutilated Corpses of Women and Children Found.

Fifteen of the Principal Merchants of Monastir Killed and Their Heads Exhibited on Poles—Other Outrages Committed.

Sofia, Aug. 25.—With the rumors of massacres and the murder of prisoners in Monastir now authenticated, the general situation is considered here as fast becoming intolerable. Official and diplomatic circles alike are concerned, having every reason to fear that only a part of the horrors, enacted in the interior of Macedonia, have come to light as yet.

The revolutionary committee are doing their utmost to force the hands of the Bulgarian government and the immediate outlook is exceedingly serious.

It appears that the Turks have obtained the upper hand in the vilayet of Monastir and the insurgents are planning to remove the center of their activity close to the Bulgarian frontiers. Dispatches arriving Monday from the disturbed area are exceedingly gloomy. From Adrianople comes the news of a Turkish defeat and the extension of the revolutionary outbreak; from Monastir, the news of Turkish victories accompanied by barbarous excesses.

While many of the reports remain without confirmation, sufficient authentic details are forthcoming to cause the authorities the gravest anxiety. According to the Sofia Dnevnik the Turks committed unspeakable atrocities at Krushevo.

The mutilated corpses of 90 women and children were found in one building; pieces of the bodies had been thrown into the street. Fifteen of the principal merchants of the town were killed and their heads exhibited on poles at Monastir.

At Monastir the churches were demolished, the houses sacked and the town is now in a heap of ashes. The populace fled to the hills, where they are in a starving condition.

The Dnevnik also asserts that a general massacre has taken place in the whole vilayet of Monastir. Nearly all the villages have been destroyed. The treacherous murder of 80 insurgent prisoners by their guards near Monastir has made an especially bad impression here.

Many rumors are current of massacres in the city of Adrianople but confirmation is lacking. The situation there, however, undoubtedly is serious. The population is afraid to leave the houses. The prisons are full and the vali has taken private houses to be used as jails. When the Russian consul protested at the situation, the vali is reported to have answered that he was powerless against the fanatical population.

CHARGED WITH PEONAGE.

This Time An Aged White Man and His Son Are Involved.

Troy, Ala., Aug. 25.—United States deputy marshals have arrested Marion Priestwood, of Roeton, Coffee county, on a charge of peonage. It is claimed that Priestwood commenced a prosecution against an old white man named English and his son by having his (Priestwood's) son, who was a justice of the peace, to issue warrants for their arrest. That on being threatened with imprisonment the two Englishes entered into a contract with Priestwood to work out about $50 with him. It is claimed by the Englishes that they had no trial and that there was no charge against them on Justice Priestwood's docket.

REAR COACH CAUGHT FIRE.

A Dozen Passengers Were Painfully Burned or Injured.

Cockeysville, Md., Aug. 25.—The rear coach attached to the York and Baltimore accommodation train on the Northern Central railroad caught fire near this station Monday afternoon and was partially demolished. A dozen passengers, including several women and children, were painfully burned or injured by jumping from the train, but no one is thought to have been fatally injured. The explosion of a gasoline lamp caused the blaze.

Italian Consul Insulted.

Rome, Aug. 25.—The porte has promised the Italian government satisfaction and the punishment of the Turkish soldiers who were guilty of insulting Count Devisart, the Italian consul at Monastir, by calling him a "Glaour." The Turkish officers who failed to intervene between the soldiers and the consul will also be punished.

Women's Chinese Reform Associations.

Tacoma, Wash., Aug. 25.—Kong Tunk Back, daughter of Kong Yu Wei, leader of the reform movement in China, has arrived to organize the reform movement among the Puget Sound Chinese. She has established 12 lodges of the Woman's Chinese Reform association.

The Attempt Was a Failure.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—The attempt of the officials of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees' union to tie up the Chicago restaurants Monday proved a failure, not a single establishment having been compelled to close for lack of help.

American Clergy in the Philippines.

Rome, Aug. 25.—Pope Pius, during an audience granted Bishop Hendrick, of Cebu, Monday, said: "Our desire is that the Philippines be entirely in the hands of the American clergy within one year."

ARE PLAYING WAR.

The Combined Fleet Makes An Attack in Portland Harbor.

Portland, Me., Aug. 26.—The searchlights at 11:55 Tuesday night were trained on a warship approaching the harbor entrance and the batteries at Ft. Williams began a cannonading. Two battleships were "destroyed" by shots from 6 and 12 inch guns at Ft. Williams. Other warships can be seen outside the harbor.

The vessels fired upon were probably gunboats or torpedo boat destroyers. Three small vessels were brought into view by the searchlights and one round of shots was fired from the 6 and 12 inch guns at Ft. Williams, which, according to the rules, sank one vessel. Ft. McKinley and Ft. Levee each fired one round, each of which sank a vessel, so in all probability three vessels were theoretically destroyed.

At 1:15 a large vessel, evidently a battleship, came into range, and was fired upon with one round from Fts. Williams and Levee and three rounds from Ft. McKinley. The vessel returned the fire of both the Ft. Williams and Ft. Levee batteries.

The ship appeared to come in a short distance and then stand off to a point opposite the two lights on the cape.

Vessels from the fleet entered the harbor. At least two landings were attempted and a torpedo boat destroyer succeeded in reaching Ft. Preble, the innermost fortification, and the acknowledged key to the defenses before being picked up by the searchlights and fired upon.

The fleet of eight ships, evidently the battleships and cruisers with the flagship Kearsarge, which had in all probability failed to effect a passage through White Head channel, approach the main channel, past the two lights, at 2:40.

Portland, Me., Aug. 27.—Two gunboats off town landing at Falmouth forebay, three miles from the harbor, were fired on from Fort McKinley while sending ashore landing parties.

Three torpedo boat destroyers are reported to have passed Forts Williams and Levee, shortly after 10:15 and attempted to countermine the harbor. They were fired on by Fort Preble.

At Fort Preble, it is claimed that all three of the big warships which entered the harbor had been technically destroyed in the earlier action, when they were first discovered by use of searchlights.

It was stated Wednesday that 140 rounds were fired by the mortars of the harbor forts during the attack, 125 shells by the converted guns at Ft. Preble and 35 shots by 6-inch guns.

Haverhill, Mass., Aug. 27.—Secretary of the Navy Moody was the chief guest of the boards of trades of the cities of the Merrimack valley in Groveland Wednesday, and spoke briefly on the navy and the present policy of the administration. Referring to the present war maneuvers, the secretary said:

"There is an especial interest in these maneuvers for the people of New England. South of the Potomac there are few deep harbors, but as you come north the number and depths of harbors increase until between Provincetown and Eastport there are more deep harbors than on any other part of our coast line.

"This is the most vulnerable part of our coast line and because of the fact that upon each harbor stands a populous city representing in population and property vast interests of the nation, it becomes a part of the nation's duty to defend that property, and so these maneuvers are being held off this coast in order that the officers and men in our fleet may be trained to the defense of these cities, and may have the opportunity by actual experience to learn the lesson which can be taught in no other way."

BILL ARP IS DEAD.

The Well-Known Humorist Had Been Ill For Several Months.

Cartersville, Ga., Aug. 25.—Maj. Charles H. Smith, known as "Bill Arp," died at his home, "The Shadows," Monday night, after an illness of many months. Following an operation for the removal of gall stones several days ago, he became gradually weaker, most of the time unconscious until the end Monday night. Of his family, his wife, four daughters and two sons were at his side Monday night. The four other sons, two in Texas, one in Mexico and Carl Smith, of New York city, have been summoned by telegraph. The funeral was held Wednesday morning. Maj. Smith was born at Lawrenceville, Ga., June 15, 1826.

The Zionist Congress.

Basel, Switzerland, Aug. 27.—The debate in the Zionist congress on the British proposal to set apart a portion of British East Africa for colonization by the Jews closed Wednesday. The congress, by 225 votes to 177, adopted a resolution to appoint a committee of nine which will be sent on an expedition to East Africa to investigate the situation. The Russian delegates opposed the project and left the hall as a protest.

Blood Poison From Rat's Bite.

Cambria, Wis., Aug. 27.—David G. Williams, 63, who was bitten by a rat two weeks ago, died Wednesday from blood poisoning, which resulted from the bite. Mr. Williams was a member of the lower house of the last legislature. He served in the civil war.

Refuses to Receive King Leopold.

Vienna, Aug. 27.—Emperor Francis Joseph has refused to receive King Leopold, who proposed to come to Vienna. The quarrel is due to King Leopold's treatment of his daughter, Countess Lonyay.

Six Lives Lost in the Vicinity of New York City.

A Severe Northwest Wind and Electric Storm Did Considerable Damage to Yachts and Other Vessels at Sandy Hook.

New York, Aug. 26.—During the height of a storm Tuesday a huge derrick on the Central Railroad of New Jersey bridge across Newark bay from Bayonne to Elizabeth was swept from its support into the water, carrying with it nine workmen. Four of the men were drowned and several badly injured. At least 60 men were at work on the bridge at a point about half a mile from the Bayonne shore. The top of the derrick was 180 feet from the water and nine men were working at various points up the huge structure. Gustav Fisher, of Bayonne, being on the very top of it. Strange to say he was about the only one to escape injury. He realized that it was impossible for him to reach the bridge, so he clung to the rigging and fell with it into the center of the channel. When he came to the surface he swam ashore. Although he collapsed after reaching land, he seemed to be in very good condition Tuesday night.

In the gale Tuesday afternoon two women lost their lives in Jamaica bay. They were Mrs. John Holm and her sister, Miss Ragna M. Rasmussen, of Brooklyn. They were sailing in a cat boat with Mr. Hold and the boat was upset about half a mile off shore. In the heavy sea that was running all three found it impossible to reach the boat and finally Holm started to swim ashore. He was picked up by a sail boat. The two women were taken from the water by a party in a steam launch, but they died without regaining consciousness.

A terrible northwest wind and electrical storm struck Sandy Hook shortly after 5 o'clock Tuesday and Shamrock III, and Reliance and a fleet of half a dozen fine yachts, including the Erin, C. Oliver Iselin's Sunbeam and the Herreshoff's Roamer were in great danger for a time.

The yacht Eureka, breaking from her anchorage, was blown violently against a coal scow and carried the scow before it. It seemed for a time that the two boats would crash into Shamrock III, which lay almost in the path of the gale not a hundred yards away. The Roamer, which was dangerously near the Shamrock, began to drag her anchor and despite the efforts to hold her drifted down rapidly. Suddenly she swung against the Sunbeam and then getting a chance to start her engines, managed to get away from the danger line.

The Sunbeam, too, as the blow increased later, again began to drag and in a moment went with a loud crash against the scow, which also commenced to drift and for a moment it looked as if Shamrock III would be overwhelmed.

The two steam yachts, the Giralda and the Allita, anchored further out in the horseshoe, were torn from their anchorage and came into bow and stern collision. The bowsprit of one crashed through the stern of the other and the two, thus locked, drifted before the wind dangerously near to the challenger. The tug Cruiser saved them, pulling them apart and away from the other boats.

PANIC IN A THEATER.

Young Girl Probably Fatally Hurt and Others Trampled.

Newark, N. J., Aug. 26.—During a heavy thunderstorm Tuesday afternoon the lights in Blaney's theater were suddenly extinguished and the audience, composed mainly of women and children, became panic-stricken and rushed for the fire escapes, many of the women fainting and being trampled on. Florence Kellogg, aged 6 years, fell from a fire escape platform and was probably fatally injured. No one else was seriously hurt and after the panic had subsided the audience resumed their seats.

Pitcher Waddell Released.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 26.—Pitcher Waddell, of the Philadelphia American league team, was released permanently by Manager Mack Tuesday. Waddell did not put in an appearance for Tuesday's game and Tuesday afternoon he was told to hand over his uniform to the club and to consider his services no longer at the disposal of the Philadelphia team.

Won the Champlain Stakes.

Saratoga, N. Y., Aug. 26.—African, added in the last minute, won the Champlain stakes Tuesday. Hermis and McCheesney, who were to meet in this event as the representatives of the east and the west respectively, were scratched on account of the heavy going. Africaner was made a 7 to 10 shot and won handily by a length and a half.

Death of David B. Lee.

New York, Aug. 26.—The sudden death of David Bradley Lee was announced Tuesday evening. Mr. Lee was in his 70th year, was a brother of the Countess Von Waldersee, formerly Miss Mary B. Lee, and of the Baroness de Wachtel.

Stock Stables and Barns Burned.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 26.—All the stock stables and barns on the Leland farm, south of this city, were destroyed by fire Tuesday afternoon. The residence was saved with difficulty. The loss is heavy.

The Question Answered.

Estill Springs, Tenn., Aug. 24th.—Many questions are being asked of Mr. C. D. Holt of this place in regard to his wonderful recovery. For two years he has been down with his back. He was so very bad that he could not even lace his shoes, and from this condition he suddenly appeared well and strong as ever.

It is no wonder therefore that his friends are asking him "How did you do it?" He tells them all: "Dodd's Kidney Pills did it," and adds "This remedy is a genuine good medicine and one that I can heartily recommend to everybody." "Everyone around here knows how very bad I was," I was so weak in my back that I couldn't do anything that needed stooping or bending over, and three boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills made me as you see, as well as ever I was.

"They certainly had a wonderful effect on my case."

The Summer Bath.

Nothing is more refreshing or invigorating in summer than a daily bath. Use soft, tepid water, and good soap. Ivory soap is ideal for the bath; it is pure, lathers quickly and leaves the skin soft and white. The bath should be taken early in the morning, or just before retiring at night. ELEANOR R. PARKER.

BY A NARROW MARGIN.

In the Second Race the Reliance Beat the Shamrock.

It Was a Pretty and Hard Fought Contest—At Every Point the Cup Defender's Superiority Was Most Clearly Demonstrated.

New York, Aug. 26.—In a glorious whole sail breeze, over a triangular course, ten miles to a leg, the fleet-footed cup defender Reliance again Tuesday showed her heels to Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger, taking the second race of the cup series of 1903 by the narrow margin of one minute and 19 seconds. It was a pretty and as hard a fought contest as has ever been sailed off Sandy Hook, and had the wind not fallen during the last ten minutes, the record for the course, 3 hours 12 minutes and 15 seconds, made by Columbia two years ago in her memorable race against Shamrock II., would have been broken. As it was, Reliance sailed the 30 miles within two minutes and 39 seconds of the record, which speaks wonders for her speed in the wind that was blowing. Reliance's victory, narrow as it was, would have been even smaller had not Capt. Wringe, the skipper of the British ship, bungled the start, sending his craft over the line 19 seconds after the last gun and handicapping her to that extent.

SHAMROCK THE THIRD.

At every point of sailing the defender's superiority was demonstrated. She gained one minute and 51 seconds in windward work, 40 seconds on the run to the second mark, and 45 seconds on the close reach for home.

Based upon the magnificent showing she has made in the two races already sailed, it is the belief of many experts that the cup is safe and that it will take something better than Lipton's latest creation to even budge it.

Capt. Barr said: "That's number two. Now we will get ready for the third."

Lord Shaftesbury said: "We are ticked. The Reliance is jolly well the best boat."

C. Oliver Iselin said: "I don't suppose any body ever saw two boats better handled than those were today. It would seem, however, that the Reliance has proved her superiority in all kinds of weather and under all conditions."

BIG FIRE IN BUDAPEST.

One Hundred and Twenty Persons Perished in the Flames.

Buda Pest, Hungary, Aug. 25.—Fire Monday evening in a four-story building, the lower stories of which were occupied by a fancy goods firm, and the upper floors by flats, cut off the escape of many of the 200 work people and of the residents on the third and fourth floors. Only the work people near the doors were able to escape. The residents above, seeing their escape cut off, clung desperately to the windows, screaming for help. The firemen held out sheets of canvas and called to them to jump. Fifteen persons were saved in this way but many missed the sheet, 13 being killed on the spot, including two children. Eight persons were mortally and nine were seriously injured.

It is known that 120 people perished in the flames. The damage is estimated at 4,000,000 kronen, mostly covered by insurance.

Turkish Commander Recalled.
Constantinople, Aug. 26.—Enmer Rushdi Pasha, the commander of the Turkish troops in Macedonia, has been recalled and arrived here Tuesday evening. Marshal Ibrahim Pasha, commanding the division of Seres, has been appointed to succeed him.

Former Officer Suicides.
New York, Aug. 26.—Frederick D. Pressler, until seven months ago captain in the United States army, stationed at Seattle in the paymaster's department, Tuesday shot and killed himself in Carroll park, Brooklyn.

Chain Cut from Body.
A singular operation has just been performed on a young woman in a hospital of Kostov, Russia. She had made a vow in case some wish was granted to wear chains about her body for two years. At the end of that time the flesh had grown up around each link of the chain. The operation proved delicate and difficult. The young woman is 27 years old.

MACEDONIAN TROUBLE.

The Porte Preparing an Answer to the Bulgarian Memorandum.

Vienna, Aug. 27.—It is stated that the porte is preparing an answer to the recent Bulgarian memorandum to the powers by note declaring Bulgaria to be directly responsible for the rising in the village of Adrianople and declining to be answerable for the consequences.

There is a report that the porte has ordered the authorities in Macedonia to protect the Greeks, and that it has also authorized the commanders to call for the co-operation of the Greek villagers against the insurgent leaders. There is also talk of the possibility of a Turko-Greek alliance.

A dispatch from Uskub reports that the Austrian consul has demanded the punishment of the colonel of an Albanian regiment, the men of which fired their rifles inside the town, thus endangering the life of an Austrian subject.

Crawfordsville, Ind., Aug. 27.—Gen. Lew Wallace Wednesday night, when asked for a statement regarding the Macedonians and whether the United States should take any action in stopping the outbreak and massacres that are shocking the civilized world, said: "There is nothing in the Turkish situation with which the American government has to do. If there are atrocities being perpetrated by the Turks, it is for the European powers to act, not us, and this will continue while the old Berlin treaty endures. In the next place, who is in the right? As I understand it, the sultan is simply defending the integrity of his empire, and he is a poor Christian who would deny him that much. It is not out of memory that we had a rebellion in our country. It is also to be remembered that we put it down, no foreign power interfering."

REMARKABLE SPECTACLE.

Vesuvius Opened Like a Huge Mouth Below the Central Cone.

Naples, Aug. 27.—The people of Naples and the environs witnessed a remarkable spectacle at noon Wednesday. One thousand feet below the central cone of Vesuvius, the volcano opened like a huge mouth, out of which belched forth a stream of lava, which ran down the side of the mountain and at first seemed to menace the observatory. This building, however, is protected in the direction of the stream by a mound of lava 200 feet high which was thrown out during the eruptions of 1895 and 1900. The eruption occurred without any warning whatever. There was no earthquake, detonation or rain of stones, but a clear stream of lava and red hot stones, which were thrown to a height of 700 feet, producing an extremely beautiful effect seen from Naples.

The stream of lava, which was 15 feet broad at 11 o'clock Tuesday night, had covered a distance of 2,700 feet. It developed later from the direction of the observatory, which is no longer menaced. The only danger is for the new electric tramway up the volcano, which, however, had thus far not been touched. The eruption already seems to be decreased, and it is hoped that no damage will result from it.

The spectators far enough away not to be frightened stood entranced at the spectacle, but those nearer to the volcano were seized by panic when the eruption began and rushed down from the sides of the mountain and from the adjacent country to the villages of Portici and Resina, which are built over the ruins of Herculaneum. The alarm in these villages was somewhat quieted by the mayor after fixing notices declaring that there was no danger and exhorting the people to remain calm.

HELEN KELLER DAY.

It Will Be Observed at the World's Fair October 13, 1904.

St. Louis, Aug. 27.—Howard J. Rogers, chief of education and social economy of the World's fair, has decided to make October 13, 1904, "Helen Keller day" at the World's fair. Miss Keller will address the International Congress of Instructors of the Blind and the Deaf. Miss Keller and her mother and Miss Sullivan, her teacher and constant companion for nearly 20 years, are to be the guests of the exposition from October 17 to 23 inclusive.

Previous Record Lowered.
New York, Aug. 27.—Henry Frederick, who left New York July 2 for a tour around the world, returned to New York Wednesday night, having been gone 54 days, seven hours and 20 minutes, which lowers the previous record by 50 minutes, made by James W. Sayres, of Seattle, on August 13, 1903.

Baltimore, Aug. 27.—A. P. Gorman, jr., the only son of United States Senator A. P. Gorman, was nominated Wednesday by the Howard county democratic convention for the state senate, having won a decision victory over his opponents.

In Arms Against Turkish Colony.
Bogota, Colombia, Aug. 21, via Buena Ventura, Aug. 27.—Henda, the most important town on the Magdalena river, situated 65 miles northwest of Bogota and having a population of 4,000, is in arms against a Turkish colony which has been established there.

Will Visit the United States.
Copenhagen, Aug. 27.—It is announced that one hundred of the wealthiest merchants of Stockholm will visit the United States and the St. Louis fair in the autumn of 1904, chartering a steamship for that purpose.

THE MISSOURI MINERS.

A General Strike May Take Place September 1.

The Operators May Make a General Appeal for Arbitration—President Mitchell Is to Be Consulted in the Matter.

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 27.—The conference of the Southwestern Interstate Coal Operators' association adjourned sine die. There were 56 operators of the three districts in the southwest in the conference, and the first work done was to agree not to accede to the demands of the Missouri miners. The conference voted that the operators should stand together in a defensive alliance and that all should fight for one and one for all as against the miners' union.

Just before the close of the morning session a motion was adopted calling for the appointment of a committee of five to take up the matters at issue with John Mitchell, president of the National Mine Workers' Union of America. The object of the committee is to appear before President Mitchell and request that the difficulties in Missouri be settled by arbitration. It is believed that next Tuesday morning, September 1, every coal mine in the state of Missouri will be shut down by a general strike unless in the meantime President Mitchell or the national board of the union advises the Missouri miners not to strike pending a settlement by arbitration.

The commission will leave for Indianapolis Thursday to lay the matter before President Mitchell. He will be asked to use his good offices in whatever way he can. The operators will suggest that two new scale committees be appointed. If they can not arrive at a settlement arbitration is proposed. The committee will urge President Mitchell to advise the Missouri miners not to go on strike Tuesday, but to keep on working until the matter is finally settled.

The operators will agree to pay whatever scale is finally decided upon from September 1. If President Mitchell or the national board can not prevent a strike pending arbitration the operators may then make a general appeal for arbitration.

Judge George Gray, of the United States circuit court, Bishop Spaulding, of the Roman Catholic church, and other distinguished men of affairs may be asked to form the board of arbitration.

WILL DISCARD KRAG RIFLES.

The Improved Springfield Rifles Will Take Their Place.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Aug. 27.—The announcement is made here Wednesday by a member of the special board appointed by the ordnance department to make rifle tests at Buffalo that the United States government will in a few days issue formal announcement of the adoption of the improved Springfield rifle and the discarding of the Krag. The decision was reached after a long series of tests by the board and the report was accepted and approved by the ordnance department. It is necessary that the action be approved by the general staff, and it is said that the announcement will be made in a few days. The weapon adopted will be seven pounds in weight, while the Krag now in use weighs nine. The Krags will be distributed among the militia of the various states.

GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE.

The Heads of Divisions Must Take the Oath of Allegiance.

Washington, Aug. 27.—An order from Public Printer Palmer was issued to the heads of divisions in the government printing office just before the hour for closing Wednesday to appear before a notary public in the office and take the oath of allegiance to the United States as subscribed to by clerks under the civil service law. Mr. Palmer said Wednesday night he had issued the order at the suggestion of a government official whose name he declined to give.

The Cruiser Chattanooga.

Newark, N. J., Aug. 27.—Cortlandt Parker, jr., acting United States district attorney for this district, Wednesday received instructions from the solicitor of the treasury to take the necessary steps to have released from the custody of Sheriff Coriell, of Union county, the United States cruiser Chattanooga, at the Crescent ship yards at Elizabethport. The sheriff seized the cruiser under writs of attachment issued out of the supreme court of this state.

Gen. Miles in New Hampshire.

Wethers, N. H., Aug. 27.—Gen. Nelson A. Miles, who came here as the guest of the New Hampshire Veterans' association, arrived from California. He was received with a salute of 17 guns and escorted to the Soldiers' pavilion for dinner.

Next Convention at Chattanooga.

Nazara Falls, N. Y., Aug. 27.—The convention of the National Order of Select Knights ended Wednesday. Syracuse made a strong bid for next year's convention, but Chattanooga won by a close vote. Danville, Va., won the prize banner.

THE New York World

Thrice-a-Week Edition.

Read Wherever the English Language is Spoken.

The Thrice-a-Week World was a brilliant success in the beginning and has steadily grown ever since. Time is test of all things, and has set its seal of approval on the Thrice-a-Week World, which is widely circulated in every State and Territory of the Union, and wherever there are people who can read our mother tongue.

This paper for the coming winter and the year 1903 will make its news service, if possible, more extensive than ever. All events of importance, no matter where they happen, are reported accurately and promptly.

The subscriber for only one dollar a year, gets three papers every week and more general reading than most great dailies can furnish at five or six times the price.

The Thrice-a-Week World is absolutely fair in its political news. Partisan bias is never allowed to affect its news columns, and Democrat and Republican alike can obtain in its pages truthful accounts of all the great political campaigns.

In addition to all the news, the Thrice-a-Week World furnishes the best serial fiction, elaborate market report and other features of interest.

The Thrice-a-Week World's regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper, and THE BOURBON NEWS together one year for $2.75.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $3.00.

A LEADER!

SUCH IS THE

Cincinnati Enquirer

IN THE NEWSPAPER WORLD.

An indispensable adjunct to the man of business, the financier, manufacturer, producer, tradesman, farmer and laborer.

All need certain facts and knowledge of affairs that pertain to each one's calling in life.

More especially, now, during the great onward march our country is making towards wealth and power, science and literature, mechanism and products of the soil.

The wide-awake gathers dollars where lagards earn cents. The enterprising newspaper that brings knowledge of the world's doings is the main prop and capital of the money-maker. Without the aid of a paper, like the ENQUIRER, one becomes the victim of his more enterprising neighbor.

The information the ENQUIRER brings you for a few cents costs thousands of dollars to obtain. You need the ENQUIRER, and we want your patronage because deserving of it. The DAILY ENQUIRER is the best all around newspaper in the United States. The WEEKLY ENQUIRER ranks as one of the ablest weekly journals in the land, and serves the average town and country masses faithfully in a reliable and profitable manner at $1.00 a year, while the daily issue at $14.00 a year, is worth that sum every day to the business man. Caleb Powers' Trial.

Judge Robbins Wednesday morning gave eleven instructions to the jury trying Caleb Powers for his life, and the argument in the case was begun by Attorney Jere R. Morton of the defense.

In brief the instructions are:
"First—Defining a criminal conspiracy, and instructing that an accessory before the fact may be convicted, though the principal is never apprehended.

"Second—If defendant did so conspire with others indicted, or any of them, he should be found guilty.

"Third—Instruction as to guilt, though defendant not present at time of shooting.

"Fourth—Defendant is guilty if he was in such conspiracy, even though time of killing had not been definitely fixed and agreed upon.

"Sixth—After formation of conspiracy, every act and declaration of one of the conspirators became the act of all.

"Seventh—If the murder of Goebel was the probable result of the execution of the conspiracy, he is guilty, though original purpose was not to kill Goebel.

"Eighth—Jury cannot convict upon the testimony of an accomplice unless such testimony be corroborated by other evidence.

"Ninth—Every fact and circumstance must be proven beyond reasonable doubt to find defendant guilty.

"Tenth—The evidence of James Sullivan, Lizzie Woolams, R. S. Hearne, Thomas Pence, John Daugherty, James Walker, Clarence Walker and Wes H. Whittaker can only be considered as affecting credibility of witnesses they were called to contradict.

"Eleventh—Defining words 'with malice,' 'forethought' and 'willful.'"

Powers' speech will be concluded this morning and Attorney Franklin will conclude during the afternoon.

News of the Farm.

Corn is in fine condition in western and southern counties; many early fields are nearly matured. If there are timely rains for the maturing of late fields, the crop ought to equal the average.

Tobacco has done well; it is better than was expected five or six weeks ago. Cutting is in progress in the western section.

Pastures are good except where drouth prevails. A fair crop of millet is being cut.

Sweet potatoes are doing well. Late gardens, turnips and the second crop of potatoes need rain.

Apples are rather scarce; drouth, windstorms and insects have caused them to fall from the trees to such an extent that there is hardly a half crop left. This is especially true in the principal apple-growing districts.

Plowing has been retarded by the dry weather; other farm work is well up.

The campaign this year will be short and sweet, but then there will be a lot of fuss raised.

ACCORDING to the physicians, Senator Hanna's illness is caused by stomach trouble. The necessity of stomaching Roosevelt has proved too much for him.

HAS any Democratic paper published in Kentucky begged money for the purpose of using it to defend Curtis Jett for the assassination of Marcum? No, they cry aloud to hang the brute.—George-town News.

SECRETARY ROOT has placed in the President's hands his resignation, and Gov. William H. Taft, of the Philippines, will succeed him on January 1 as Secretary of War. Gen. Luke Wright will become Governor of the Philippines upon the retirement of Judge Taft.

THE opening of the Democratic State campaign at Winchester Saturday, September 5, will be a big political event. Gov. Beckham, Senator McCreary, Hon. Ollie James and other speakers are assured of an immense audience. The keynote of the campaign will be sounded in a way to increase the enthusiasm prevailing among the Democratic hosts.

Invitation to Democrats.

WINCHESTER, KY., Aug. 22, '03.
EDITOR BOURBON NEWS, Paris, Ky.

DEAR SIR: The Democrats of Clark county desire to extend through you to the Democrats of Bourbon county a cordial invitation to attend the opening of the Democratic State campaign at this place on Saturday, September 5th. Governor Beckham and his associates on the State ticket and other prominent speakers will be here, and the Democrats of Clark county will furnish an abundance of burgoo and music. Large delegations will attend from Louisville, Covington, Lexington and other points, and we hope to see Bourbon county well represented.

Sincerely yours,
SAM W. PURSLEY,
C. D. C. Club for Clark Co.

AMUSEMENTS.

Musical comedy just now is all the rage among the theatre-going public, and in "Looking for a Wife," a farce comedy which is to appear at the Grand Opera House, in this city, on September 4th, we are assured that we will see one of the best. With a company of twenty five people, among whom are some of the best comedians to be seen on the stage to-day, we are promised by the management an entertainment out of the ordinary. No expense has been spared by the managers of "Looking for a Wife" to make the production complete in every detail, even the minor parts being in the hands of competent people. The costumes alone are said to have cost over one thousand dollars. Special scenery and effects from the studio of Geo. B. Purvis, New York City, is carried by the company for the entire production. Some of the biggest musical hits of the year are to be heard with, "Looking for a Wife." Clever people, new songs and artistic dances are the elements that make a good comedy, and if reports are true, "Looking for a Wife" has all of these. Seat sale opens Sept. 1st at Borland's.

POPULAR LANDLORD.—Mr. D. D. Connor, the popular hotel man, will take charge of Hotel Fordham on Sept. 8th for himself. The house has been leased to other parties for the past eighteen months. With the affable Dan in the office and his excellent wife as housekeeper, is enough to insure the public that no better hotel can be found in Kentucky. (tf)

PUBLIC RENTING

—OF—

547½ ACRES

—OF—

Bourbon Land.

As Committee of Geo. G. White, I will rent publicly at the Main Street entrance to the Court-house yard, in Paris, Ky., at 12 o'clock, noon, on Wednesday, September 16th, 1903, the farm of Mr. Geo. G. White, known as the Gilt Edge Stock Farm, situate on the Paris & North Middletown Turnpike, near Paris, and bounded on the North by said pike and the Paris Distilling Company's property, on the East by Geo. W. Wyatt, on the South by Stoner Creek and on the West by Stoner Creek, the Maysville Railroad and the said Distillery property, and contains by survey 547 acres, 2 rods and 22 poles of land, NO CREEK INCLUDED IN BOUNDARY, the line along the creek following the creek "as it meanders on the bank at the distance of about 2 poles from the water in said creek."

This is a No. 1 Bluegrass farm. It lies adjacent to the City of Paris, and has on it one of the best farm residences in the county.

It is well watered and has all necessary outbuildings, including a fine large stock barn with box stalls and good training track adjoining barn.

Besides main residence there is a good two-story tenant house on the farm near the distillery property.

I will first offer the tenant house with 5 13-100 acres of land, as shown by survey attached, and then the balance of the farm containing 542½ acres separately, after which I will offer the entire farm as a whole, reserving the right to accept either bid or reject all bids.

There will be about 215 acres for corn including about 70 acres now in hemp and which lessee may cultivate either in corn or hemp at his option; about 90 to 95 acres for wheat and 15 to 20 acres for oats, and right will be reserved to seed said farm in fall of 1904; and to sow grass at proper time on said wheat and oats land. The balance of said farm is well set in bluegrass.

Said renting is subject to the right of the Paris Distilling Co. to maintain their pumping station near the Railroad bridge, and to deposit offal from their cattle pens in the sinks on said farm in rear of distillery property.

If tenant house is rented separately right of ingress and egress to and from same over balance of farm will also be reserved.

TERMS.—The above lease will commence March 1, 1904, and extend until March 1, 1905, and lessee will be required to execute two negotiable notes well secured, each for one-half of said rental one due in six months and the other in one year from March 1, 1904, and both bearing interest from March 1, 1904, at 6 per cent.

WM. MYALL,
Committee of Geo. G. White.

TALL OR SHORT

SLIM OR STOUT

Don't get the idea into your head that we can't fit you with a suit. Many stout and slim men give up "ready-made" clothing in despair. We bring them relief. We promise to fit every one directly from our stock—possibly a little alteration in some particularly severe cases.

WE'LL SURPRISE YOU

with the clothes, as well as with the prices. We do away with that extra charge for big men. Ask you no more than we do the ordinary built man. The styles of stuff are always neat in stouts and slims. Come in 1 Odd Size and see what we can do for you.

LUCK IN THE HOUSE.

My love departs in the morning.
Good-by, my love, good-by!
I work the harder when you're gone,
The happier when you're nigh.
The busy hours will bring their cares,
Their trials great and small,
Their petty frets, their vain regrets,
And I must meet them all.

"For there's nae luck about the house,
There's nae luck at a',
There's nae luck about the house
When my gude mon's awa'."

My love returns at nightfall.
Come in, my love, come in!
Around my waist his arm is placed,
His hand beneath my chin.
The weariness, the troubled thought,
The sense of weight and care,
Are all become as they were naught
And vanished into air.

For there's great luck about the house,
And peace too deep for rhyme;
There's great luck about the house
When my gude mon's at home.

CHAPTER XVIII.

The doctor started at the heels of the corporal, but was distanced long before he reached the scene. The sergeant of the guard was hammering on the front door of Blake's quarters; but, before the summons was answered from within, Mrs. Ray, in long, loose wrapper, came hurrying forth from her own—the adjoining—hallway. Her face was white with dread. "It is I, Nannie. Let us in," she cried, and the door was opened by a terrified servant, as the doctor came panting up the steps. Together he and Mrs. Ray hurried in. "Robbers!" gasped the servant girl—"Gone—the back way!" and collapsed on the stairs. Sergeant and corporal both tore around to the west side and out of the rear gate. Not a sign of fugitives could they see, and what was worse, not a sign of sentry. Number 5, of the third relief, should at that moment have been pacing the edge of the bluff in rear of the northernmost quarters, and yet might be around toward the flagstaff. "Find Number 5," were the sergeant's orders, and back he hurried to the house, not knowing what to expect. By that time others of the guard had got there and the officer-of-the-day was coming—the clink of his sword could be heard down the road, and more windows were uplifted and more voices were begging for information, and then came Mrs. Dade, breathless but calm.

Within doors she found the doctor ministering to a stout female who seemed to have gone off in an improvised swoon—Mrs. Blake's imported cook. Up the stairs to her own room again, Mrs. Blake was being led by Marion Ray's encircling arm. Three women were speedily closeted there, for Mrs. Dade was like an elder sister to these two sworn friends, and, not until Mrs. Dade and they were ready, did the lady descend the stairs and communicate the facts to the excited gathering in the parlor, and they in turn to those on the porch in front. By this time Flint himself, with the post quartermaster, was on hand, and all Fort Frayne seemed to rouse, and Mrs. Gregg had come with Mrs. Wilkins, and those two had relieved the doctor of the care of the cook, now talking volubly; and, partly through her revelations, but mainly through the more coherent statements of Mrs. Dade, were the facts made public. Margaret, the cook, had a room to herself on the ground floor adjoining her kitchen. Belle, the maid, had been given the second floor back in order to be near to her young mistress. Blitzer, the Blakes' man-of-all-work—like McGinn, a discharged soldier—slept in the basement at the back of the house, and there was he found, blinking, bewildered and only with difficulty aroused from stupor by a wrathful sergeant. The cook's story, in brief, was that she was awakened by Mrs. Blake's voice at her door, and, thinking Belle was sick, she jumped up and found Mrs. Blake in her wrapper, asking was she, Margaret, up stairs a moment before. Then Mrs. Blake, with her candle, went into the dining-room, and out jumped a man in his stocking feet from the captain's den across the hall, and knocked over Mrs. Blake and the light, and made for her, the cook; whereat she screamed and slammed her door in his face, and that was really all she knew about it.

But Mrs. Blake knew more. Awakened by some strange consciousness of stealthy movement about the house, she called Belle by name, thinking possibly the girl might be ill and seeking medicine. There was sound of more movement, but no reply. Mrs. Blake's girlhood had been spent on the frontier. She was a stranger to fear. She arose; struck a light, and, seeing no one in her room or the guest chamber and hallway, hastened to the third room, and was surprised to find Belle apparently quietly sleeping. Then she decided to look about the house and, first, went down and roused the cook. As she was coming out of the dining-room, a man reaped past her in the hall, hur-ing her to one side and dashing out the light. Her back was toward him, for he came from Gerald's own premises known as the den. In that den, directly opposite, was one of her revolvers, loaded. She found it, even in the darkness, and, hurrying forth again, intending to chase the intruder and alarm the sentry at the rear, encountered either the same or a second man close to the back door, a man who sprang past her like a panther and darted down the steps at the back of the house, followed by two shots from her Smith & Wesson. One of these men wore a soldier's overcoat, for the cape, ripped from the collar seam, was left in her hands. Another soldier's overcoat was later found at the rear fence, but no boots, shoes or tracks thereof, yet both of these men, judging from the sound, had been in stocking feet, or possibly rubbers, or perhaps—but that last suspicion she kept to herself, for Mrs. Hay, too, was now among the arrivals in the house—full of sympathy and genuine distress. The alarm, then, had gone beyond the guard house, and the creators thereof beyond the ken of the guard, for not a sentry had seen or heard anything suspicious until after the shots, then Number 5, Flint's latest addition, declared that from his post at llay's corral he had distinctly heard the swift hoofbeats of a brace of ponies darting up the level bench to the westward. Number 5 had turned up safely, and declared that at the moment the scream was heard he was round by the flagstaff, listening to the night chorus of a pack of yelping coyotes, afar out to the northwest, and then he thought he heard scrambling and running down at the foot of the bluff just as the shots were fired. Investigation on his part was what took him out of sight for the moment, and later investigation showed that one marauder, at least, had gone that way, for a capless greatcoat was found close down by the shore, where some fugitive had tossed it in his flight. This overcoat bore, half-erased from the soiled lining, the name of Culligan, troop "K," but Culligan had served out his time and taken the discharge a year before. The other overcoat was even older, an infantry coat, with shorter cape, bearing a company number "47," but no name. Both garments savored strongly of the stable.

Then, before quiet was restored, certain search was made about the quarters. It was found the intruders had obtained admission through the basement door at the back.

But what had they taken? The silver was upstairs, intact, under Mrs. Blake's bed; so was the little safe in which was kept her jewelry and their valuable papers. Books, bric-a-brac—everything downstairs seemed unmolested. No item was missing from its accustomed place. Mrs. Blake thought perhaps the intruders had not entered her room at all. In Gerald's den were "stacks," as he said, of relics, souvenirs, trophies of chase and war, but no one thing of the intrinsic value of $50. What could have been the object of their midnight search? was the question all Fort Frayne was asking as people dispersed and went home—the doctor intimating it was high time that Mrs. Blake was permitted to seek repose. Not until he had practically cleared the house of all but her most intimate friends, Mrs. Dade and Mrs. Ray, would Waller permit himself to ask a question that had been uppermost in his mind ever since he heard her story.

"Mrs. Blake, someone has been ransacking Mr. Field's quarters for letters or papers. Now—was there anything of that kind left by the captain that—someone may have needed?"

Nannie Blake's head was uplifted instantly from Marion's shoulder. She had been beginning to feel the reaction. For one moment the three women looked intently into each other's faces. Then they started and trooped away into Gerald's den. The doctor followed. The upper drawer of the big, flat-topped desk stood wide open, and pretty Mrs. Blake opened her eyes and mouth in emulation as she briefly exclaimed: "It's gone!"

Then Waller went forthwith to the quarters of the commander and caught him still in conference with his quartermaster and the guard, four or five of the latter being grouped without. The major retired to his front room, where, with Wilkins, he received the doctor.

"Maj. Flint," said Waller, "those overcoats belong to Mr. Hay's stableman, Pete and Crapaud. Will you order their immediate arrest?"

"I would, doctor," was the answer, "but they are not at the corral. We know how to account for the hoofbeats in the valley. Those scoundrels have got nearly an hour's start, and we've nobody to send in chase."

Then it presently appeared that the post commander desired to continue conference with his staff officer, for he failed to invite the surgeon to be seated. Indeed, he looked up into the doctor's kindling eyes with odd mixture of impatience and embarrassment in his own, and the veteran practitioner felt the slight; flushed instantly, and, with much hauteur of manner, took prompt but ceremonious leave.

And when morning came and Fort Frayne awoke to another busy day, as if the excitement of the night gone by had not been enough for it, a new story went buzzing, with the first call for guard mount, about the garrison; and, bigger even than yesterday, the two details, in soldier silence, began to gather in front of the infantry quarters. Maj. Flint had ordered sentries posted at the trader's home, with directions that Mrs. Hay was not to be allowed outside of her gate, and no one, man or woman, permitted to approach her from without, except by express permission of the post commander. "Gen. Harney" and "Dan," the two best horses of the trader's stable, despite the presence of the sentry at the front, had been abstracted some time during the earlier hours of the night, and later traced to the ford at Stabber's old camp, and with Pete and Crapaud, doubtless, were gone.

That day the major wired to Omaha that he should be reinforced at once. One-half his little force, he said, was now mounted each day for guard, and the men couldn't stand it. The general, of course, was in the field, but his chief of staff remained at headquarters and was empowered to order troops from post to post within the limits of the department. Flint hoped two more companies could come at once, and he did not care what post was denuded in his favor. His, he said, was close to the Indian lands—separated from them, in fact, only by a narrow and fordable river. The Indians were all on the warpath, and, aware of his puny numbers, might be tempted at any moment to quit the mountains and concentrate on him.

And so another restless day went by and no more news came from either front or rear—from the range to the north or Rock Springs at the south, and Flint was just formulating another fervid appeal to that impassive functionary, the adjutant general at Omaha, when toward evening word came whistling down the line in the person of Master Sanford Ray, that two couriers were in sight "scooting" in from Moccasin Ridge, and Flint and fully half the soldier strength of Fort Frayne gathered on the northward bluff like the "war-burgers" of ancient Rome, to watch and speed their coming. Who could tell what the day might yet bring forth?

It was well-nigh dark before the foremost reached the ford—a scout in worn and tawdry buckskin, wearied and impassive. He gave his dispatch to the care of the first officer to accost him, and took the way to the store, briefly saying in reply to questions, that he was "too dry to speak the truth." So they flocked, at respectful distance, about the major as he read the hurried lines. The general bade the post commander wire the entire message to Washington, and to "take all precautions for the protection of the few settlers about him. The columns under Col. Henry and Maj. Webb had united near the head waters of the Clear Fork of the Powder; had had a rattling running fight with Lane Wolf's people; had driven them into the mountains and were following hot on the trail, but that Stabber's band and certain disaffected Sioux had cut loose from the main body and gone south. Whistling Elk, a young chief of much ambition, had quarreled with certain of the Red Cloud element, and joined Stabber, with his entire band. Look out for them and watch for signals any day or night from Eagle Butte."

Flint read with sinking heart. Indian fighting was something far too scientific for his martial education, and too much for his skeleton command. In the gathering dusk his face looked white and drawn, and old Wilkins, breasting his way up the slope, puffed hard, as he begged for news. There was still another dispatch, however, which was evidently adding to the major's perturbation, for it concerned him personally and for the moment Wilkins went unheard.

The general desires that you send the couriers back within 24 hours of their arrival, after you have had time to scout the line of the Plate say 20 miles each way, giving full report of every Indian seen or heard of. He enjoins vigilance and hopes to keep the Sioux so busy that they can send no more in your direction. Should they do so, however, he will pursue at once. He trusts that you are doing everything possible to comfort and reassure Mrs. Hay, and that you can send good news of Lieut. Field.

"He is simply fretting his heart out here," were the doctor's words to him but a short time before, "and, while unable to mount a horse, he is quite strong enough now to take the trip by ambulance, slowly, that is, to Rock Springs. I fear his father is failing. I fear Field will fail if not allowed to go. I recommend a seven days' leave, with permission to apply to Omaha for 30—he'll probably need it."

"I can't permit government teams and ambulances to be used for any such purpose," said the major, stoutly. "It is distinctly against orders."

"Then, sir, he can go in my spring wagon and we'll hire mules from Mrs. Hay," was the doctor's prompt reply. "He can do no good here, major. He may do much good there."

But Flint was full of information and official zeal. The matter of Field's going had been broached before, and, when told of it, the Wilkins pair had been prompt with their protests. "Of course he'd be wantin' to get away," said Wilkins, "wid all that money to account for, let alone these other things." The Irishman was hot against the young West Pointer, who had derided him. He doubtless believed his own words. He never dreamed how sorely the lad now longed to see his father—how deep was his anxiety on his father's account—how filled with apprehension on his own, for that riled desk had brought him reason for the most painful thought. Wilkins and Field had been antagonistic from the start. Neither could see good in the other, and, egged on by his worthy spouse's exhortations, the quartermaster had seized the opportunity to fill the post commander's too receptive mind with all his own suspicions—and this at a crucial time.

"I can't listen to it, Dr. Waller," said the major, sternly. "Here's a matter of near $1,000 that young man has got to answer for the moment he is well enough to stir. And if he can't account for it—you well know what my duty will demand."

A LOYAL HEART.

The Noble Self-Sacrifice of a Colored Man Who Labors for His Benefactors.

As the Milledgeville, Ga., News tells the story, one of the young colored men connected with Booker T. Washington's school at Tuskegee has many of the qualities which go to the making of a hero of romance. About years ago Mr. Edwards of Milledgeville picked up a very small black boy and undertook, in his language, "to raise him and make something of him." Mr. Edwards fed and clothed the boy, and in a general way taught him many things; and the lad, who was bright and capable, made such return as he could. His name was Garner, and in time he became known as Garner Edwards.

After Mr. Edwards' death his two sisters continued to care for Garner. He was proud of "his family," loved the two ladies who were befriending him sincerely, and as he grew older he was a comfort and protection to them, for they also were alone in the world, without parents or brothers. When he came to manhood he did not forsake them or the home that had sheltered him, but insisted that it was the only home he had ever known, and that it was his duty and pleasure to aid in supporting it, and he came to bear a considerable part of its expenses.

Garner learned the trade of a brick-mason, and finally moved to Alabama where he became acquainted with Booker Washington, who helped him in getting work that would enable him to take a course in the school at Tuskegee and at the same time be self-sustaining. Here, as in all of his other positions, Garner made a good record and won many honors. After finishing school he married, but continued in the employ of the school, and is still there. In the meantime Garner's white benefactors have never been forgotten. His remittances to them have always continued. For many years he has paid the taxes on the old home; he has cared for the two sisters in illness, provided the best medical attendance and supplied every want. When one of the ladies was painfully injured by a fall, his wife, a trained nurse, hurried to Milledgeville to care for "Garner's white folks," and performed every duty skillfully and lovingly.

No one of any color could more nobly have repaid a debt of love. The best part of this simple story of a humble soul's gratitude and devotion is that it is true.

INTERESTING CONVERSATION.

Terse Talk of King of Prussia and a Hungarian Magnate at Carlsbad.

Frederick II. of Prussia, always had the reputation of being the most laconic man of his day in Europe. It became known that a Hungarian magnate, who was at Carlsbad taking the waters, was very abrupt and short in his manner of speech. So much so that some even went so far as to suggest that he was as terse and silent as the king of Prussia.

This came to Frederick's ears, so he determined to run down to Carlsbad to see his rival and satisfy himself on the point of comparison which had been raised. The magnate was pointed out to Frederick as he stood in the hall of his hotel.

The king went up to him, and the following conversation was the result:

Frederick—Bathing?
Hungarian—Drinking!
Frederick—Officer?
Hungarian—Magnate!
Frederick—So?
Hungarian (taking the initiative)—Detective?
Frederick—King!
Hungarian—Congratulations.
I will leave it to my readers to judge between the merits of the two for the honor which they most desired.

THE TORNADO.

Clouds low, low hung,
And wild birds sung,
Like leaves on the gust, go by;
And a flash of rain
Strikes the window pane
Like tears from the heavy sky.

Tall trees wind-blown
Whistle round and groan,
Strike back at the blast, and bend
In a tortured toss
Till their branches cross,
And their tops with the grasses blend.

From caverns far
Where northwinds are
The god of the storm comes forth;
On his far-flung breath
Aides shrieking death,
And its mantle is over earth.

Huge billows rise
Where the ocean lies
Till the heavens are washed in brine;
Men's souls go out
In the tempest's rout,
And wild beasts crouch and whine.

Man, who forgot
In his proud hot
Of pleasure, golden shod,
With plea for peace
And storms swift cease
Creeps back to an outraged God!

The Plot That Failed

"GOING to Canada are you?"
asked a young New York business man of a friend about to set off on his vacation the other day.

"Whereabouts in Canada are you going?" To the Muskoka Lakes? Well, if it's not too late I should like to sound a note of warning, for I've been there, my boy. Since that summer I have classified three things as 'dangerous to life with' in my dictionary—Muskoka, moonlight and Canadian girls. I must tell you my experience so you can profit by it and be wary.

"I was there in August, and late in the month. The girl who attracted me had had a gay summer and had all the accomplishments of a summer girl in excellent practice, and was, of course, as pretty as a picture—all Canadian girls are.

"There was another fellow there—a confounded Toronto bank clerk, I think—and to my sorrow she seemed to prefer him to me, laughing at my swimming and paddling, and telling me I was at my best in a canoe, but made a pretty good showing, I thought, beside her precious bank clerk, and at the rather scarce dances we did have a pretty good time together, she and I.

"And when she let me take her out in the moonlight on Lake Rosseau, with its dark pines against the sky making the most romantic background, she and I in a light canoe on the rippling water, her little brown head against my Yale cushion—well, my boy, you'll find out what it feels like before you're many weeks older. I'm much mistaken. Of course, I made a fool of myself—for any man's a fool who persists as I did with so little encouragement, but we did have a pretty nice time, only she would continue to laugh at me.

"Time went on and I had only one day more to spend at the hotel. Things were getting serious. She was offended with me for a faux pas I had made the day before, and evidently meant to give me the cold shoulder—and it was my last day. I decided on action as absolutely essential to bring things to a point, and after thinking it over very deeply I decided that she might love me if she could respect and admire me more than she did then. So I must compel this emotion, and how better, I thought, than by saving her life at the (apparent) risk of my own.

"Now, I am a good swimmer, though not as fast as the other fellows up there, who spend long summers on the water, doubtless, which I have never done. They called me 'Ferryboat' and 'Molasses' when we all went swimming together. So I determined to give the lie to their odious epithets and win my lady's gratitude and admiration at one fell blow, by getting her out in my canoe, upsetting us both, and doing a grand rescue act.

"The first and most difficult part of my plot was getting the girl to come out with me at all, but by being very pathetic about 'my last day' I managed that much and my courage rose.

"Where shall we go?" I asked, when I had her in a neat, white dress and sunbonnet in the bow of my canoe.

"Let us go to Port S—," she replied demurely. 'I want to get a film for my camera. Is that far?'

"Nothing could be too far to me when you are with me," I answered, mentally determined, however, that our accident should happen before we went half the five miles that lay between our hotel and Port S—.

"She smiled a little, but her manner was still cool, and she allowed the conversation to languish as we came out of the bay and turned westward up the lake. Here there was quite a sweep, and the waves and wind were dead against us, so that I had to paddle my hardest to make the boat go against them. Suddenly she exclaimed, 'Let me help you,' and in spite of my beseechings insisted on turning round and paddling, too. It did make a difference, and we went along beautifully after that, as her little body bent to the even strokes of her paddle. But I had only her back, and occasionally her profile, to look at, so pushed on in order to get round the next point where we should turn south and so get out of the sight of our hotel and the neighboring islands. I wanted to do up this adventure brown and have the whole landscape to ourselves alone, and so make my 'declaration' in really favorable surroundings.

"We went on till we had left the point behind us and turned our course so that the waves came directly on our starboard side. The canoe was difficult to keep straight, and as we were both leaning over our paddles and throwing a good deal of weight on our own sides of the craft it was scarcely necessary for me to do anything. 'A stroke too long,' as the poet says, was all that was needed, and there was a lurch and a splash, and over we went.

"But through some stupidity on my part my feet got caught in the thwart, and when, after a moment, I managed to extricate myself and come up panting, my lady was collecting paddles and cushions in the most insignificant way, meanwhile swimming about as easily as if water were her natural element.

"'Are you all right?' she called out, looking more concerned about me than I thought necessary; and with her bonnet and hair scarcely splashed, so calmly had she fallen in.

"'Yes; I'm all right now. Let me help you,' I answered, striking out in her direction.

"Don't bother about me. I can easily swim to shore. It's only about a quarter of a mile. You had better right your canoe and put the things in before the cushions sink,' and off she went, striking out with a long, easy stroke that looked good for twice the distance.

"Well, I was in a fix. I never intended to overturn the canoe completely in tipping the girl out, and I would not have done so if my wretched feet had not caught, for I had not the slightest idea how to right it. It looked so simple to have just spilled us out and then supporting her with one arm while I rescued, paddled, etcetera, with the other—indeed, I even had an idea of towing the canoe by holding the painter in my teeth as I had seen others do. But, alas! the best laid schemes of mice and men gang aft a-gley." So what could I expect with such a clumsy plot as mine? For though I had seen the girl in bathing I had no idea a woman could swim a quarter of a mile in her clothes.

"But don't you be surprised at anything Canadian girls do! Well, I had my hands full, trying to turn that canoe over without filling it with water—try it yourself some time—and after vainly struggling with it for ten minutes and being unable to move it, so heavy was it, I gave up and made for shore, which my water witch was fast approaching with unabated energy.

"Perhaps I wasn't vexed when, on looking behind me, I spied a sailboat containing the bank clerk and two other men from our hotel bearing down upon the shore just in front of my companion in distress—or rather my late companion, for she seemed perfectly at ease. They did not deign to notice me till they rushed past, and then one insulting creature called out: 'Hello, Ferryboat! Beaten out by a girl, eh?' making me so angry that I nearly choked them and there.

"Well, they carried her off, and were kind enough to empty my canoe for me and push it off in my direction. So I clambered in and paddled home by myself, a sadder and a permanently wiser man.

"Her engagement to the bank clerk was announced that evening, so you may suppose I was heartily glad I had intended leaving there the next day, for I shouldn't have cared about staying longer. Naturally I was the laughing stock of the house, for it was impossible for me to explain. No one would have believed I had done on purpose a thing which made me out so poor a figure. So I had to keep silent, swallow my rage and wish the young people joy into the bargain.

"But I'll never try any dodge like that on a Canadian girl again, and don't you, either, my boy. They're dangerous game."—N. Y. Tribune.

Bread Mixed with Sea-Water.
The fashionable baker's window contained only a loaf of wheat, a loaf and a bouquet of arbutus. The interior of his shop resembled a parlor. The bread was all concealed. "The latest fad in my business," said the man, "is bread made with sea water, instead of with fresh water. This bread is good for dyspepsia. It has a saltier taste than we are accustomed to, but is very palatable. In fact, he who likes salty things is apt to like it better than the other kind of bread. A physician asked me about three months ago to make some of this bread for his patients. At first I made six loaves a day, but now I make 30. My sea water comes up to me from Atlantic City three times a week. The dyspeptics who buy the bread say it is the only kind they can eat fresh without discomfort. They say, too, that it has a medicinal effect on them; that they have been better since they took it up."—Philadelphia Record.

Northern Timber Line.
The impression that British North America is covered with valuable timber is fallacious. Black walnut, red cedar and white oak are not found north of Toronto. A line drawn from the city of Quebec to Sault Ste. Marie will designate the northern limit of beech, elm and birch. The north shore of Lake Superior will mark the northern boundary of sugar hard maple.—Lumber Journal.

ANCIENT INDIAN RELIC.

Treaty Made Between the Creek Tribe and Great Britain in Time of George II.

According to Charles Gibson, Indian journalist of Eufaula, the two most sacred relics of the Creek or Muskogee tribe are in the keeping of the To-ka-par-chee clan. One of them is the treaty made between the Indians and Great Britain in the time of George II. When a custodian of the relic is dying he appoints his successor by will. The Indians look upon this relic as next to brass or copper plates that To-ka-par-chees own—these plates are hard to describe, as they are kept in a very sacred vault where none are allowed to enter except the medicine man or some old chief, says the Kansas City Journal. The history of these plates is as follows: One old medicine man who had been noted for being the greatest among the Creeks, before dying, told some of the other medicine men that if they would meet him on the highest mountain peak—naming the mountain—he would bring them something very sacred and it would strengthen their medicine and add to their happiness. The medicine men then appointed a day and waited. When the last stick was thrown away each wended his way to the top of the mountain. They waited long and well. When the sun became low in the west a great snake came from the west and darkened the country around about the mountain. The medicine men were frightened, but stood their ground. Then came claps of thunder and flashes of lightning that almost blinded the old men. Then a dark cloud appeared, and all at once there appeared out of the dark cloud a bundle, which was handed to the old men. The hands holding the bundle were all that could be seen, and resembled the hands of the old medicine man who had died. As soon as the package containing the plates was delivered the cloud moved away and there was a clear sky. The old men took their charge back to their square house and hid it until the time of their annual celebration, or green corn dance, when the plates were introduced into their festivities. That is some thousand years ago, and they are still in possession of the Creeks.

The custodians of these plates are what are called the wild clan. There are a great many of these plates, and the largest ones have characters of some kind on them. They are exhibited only on state occasions, once a year. Each one has a beautiful sound or ring, it is said, when they are used in the dance, making sweet music. After the dance they are taken out, one to each man, and are secured very bright and placed away until the next year. It is said that in the polishing process the work hands are very cautious, as it is known that the least slip will result in a sure loss of the plate, as it is said the plates are supposed to be part turtle or fish, as they came to the Creek through a cloud or mist, and will dart here and there if let loose in the water, and will get away.

A FRONTIER POLICEMAN.

Drops Into Kansas City in a Blue Uniform and is Properly Treated.

The new country develops queer personalities. No country in the United States is more marked in this respect than the new counties of Oklahoma. The people there are of two distinct classes—from the state of Kansas and from the state of Texas. The latter are in the majority, and the offices filled at the first election were, for the most part, given to the Texas contingent, says the Kansas City Journal.

Frank Heffley is the chief of police of Anadarko. He is a Texan—the spirit of the south, as it is known in the state of distances, white men's unions and radical railroad commissions.

Mr. Heffley made his first visit to Kansas City recently. It was his first visit to any state north of the muddy Red river that defines the northern boundary of the empire of Texas. Heffley liked Kansas City. It was all new and strange to him, but the people were all good fellows, and he was well pleased.

"I've never been to any place bigger than Dallas," said Chief Heffley. "You all ought to see Dallas at the time of the state fair. It's a mighty lively town. The most beneficent work of Providence, I think, was putting the Indian territory between Texas and Kansas. It was necessary to have something there to prevent things. The settlement of the territory may be the cause of making a sort of tapering off peace from each state, so that the people will be able to become used to each other by degrees."

He wore the uniform of chief of police while he was in Kansas City. It was blue and somewhat worn in places. But it gave him a dignity which commanded respect from the metropolitan policemen who met him—and metropolitan policemen sometimes have the habit of having fun with the rural peace officers.

The first day after Chief Heffley arrived in the city he went to Chillicothe. In company with a Missouri friend, who is now a resident of Anadarko. The feature of that journey was the apple orchard past which the train took them. They were the first apples on trees that Chief Heffley had ever seen.

"Heffley was twice prevented from pulling the bell cord to stop the train," said his friend, "because he wanted to get off and gather apples."

"Yes, and if I'd been in Oklahoma the train would have stopped for me," retorted Heffley. "The people down there in the south know how to respect the law. Besides the people of South Oklahoma and Texas are accommodated and courteous folks."

ROAD ACROSS THE DESERT.

Arid Colorado Plain Will Soon Be Traversed by Fine Boulevard Thirty-Five Miles Long.

Work is now in progress in southern California upon a boulevard intended to pass through the Colorado desert in a straight line from the projected town of Rockwood to Calexico, on the Mexican border. It will be 100 feet wide and 35 miles long. Along either side of the boulevard and down the center will be rows of trees to shut off the glare of the desert sun. Also on either side will be small canals, which will not only irrigate the shade trees, but also will be utilized to lay the dust when the road is completed. It will require only two men to care for the entire 35 miles.

The rapid growth of trees in the desert country will insure a magnificent avenue in a very short time. At the international line 14-month-old willows are growing on the banks of the imperial canal seven inches in diameter and 30 feet high. The boulevard will give access to the towns of Rockwood, Brawley Imperial, Shilbee, Calexico, Mexicali Mexicola and many new villages.

BIG ELECTRIC LOCOMOTIVE.

Immense Engine with Capacity of Two Thousand Horse Power Recently Completed.

The General Electric company has recently completed the largest electric locomotive in the world. It was built for the Baltimore & Ohio railroad and will be used in the tunnel at Baltimore, taking heavy freight trains out of the city limits.

The locomotive weighs 150 tons and is designed to haul a freight train weighing 1,500 tons up a grade 1½ per cent. Its capacity is 2,000-horse power. It is controlled with the multiple unit system. There is a controller at either end of the cab, so that it may be run backward or forward. The locomotive is made up of two units, each weighing 80 tons, and is so arranged that any number of units may be coupled together, making it as much larger as is desired. All the units are controlled from the one place. There are eight 42-inch drive wheels on each unit, making 16 drive wheels on the locomotive. The cab is of sheet steel and the frame of heavy cast steel.

NEW DEATH-DEALING DEVICE.

French Scientist Makes Terrible Discovery While Experimenting with Hertzian Rays.

Dr. Le Bon, the scientific French investigator, has reported an accidental discovery which may possibly lead to a terrible death dealing invention.

While he was experimenting with Hertzian rays in his laboratory he suddenly was surrounded by what he describes as a rain of fire from all metallic objects in the room. He concluded from this that it would be possible to construct large metal mirrors, capable of reflecting for several miles Hertzian rays, which would ignite any explosive substances encountered, such as shells and gunpowder in magazines and cartridges in soldiers' belts.

Warships particularly would be vulnerable owing to their extensive use of electricity, while torpedoes on board could be exploded by an enemy.

FIND WHISKY IN A COFFIN.

The Norfolk & Western railway force, which is extending the line near Naugatuck, W. Va., struck an old graveyard recently and the grading made it necessary to remove several dead bodies.

One coffin was broken open and it was discovered that a bottle of whisky had been buried with it, presumably more than 30 years ago. The whisky was reinterrred at another spot, with the moldering remains accompanying it.

FREE PROOF FORBIDS DOUBT.

GAINES, Pa., August 3, 1903.—"I received your sample of Doan's Kidney Pills and since have taken two boxes, and I can truthfully say they are as good as they are recommended to be. When I began taking them I could not bend my back enough to pick up a stick of wood—sometimes could not walk or move my feet—had two doctors but did not get relief. I saw your ad., and got a trial box and have taken two boxes, and I am able to do a very hard day's work. Doan's Kidney Pills are a God-send to humanity."—Mrs. ELLA A. MATTHEW, Gaines, Pa., Box 186.

The great fame of Doan's Kidney Pills is won by the wonderful power of the free trial to demonstrate surprising merit.

Aching backs are eased. Hip, back, and loin pains overcome. Swelling of the limbs, dropsy, signs, and rheumatic pains vanish. They correct urine with brick dust sediment, high colored, pain in passing, dribbling, frequency, bed wetting. Doan's Kidney Pills remove catarrh and gravel. Relieve heart palpitation, sleeplessness, headache, nervousness, dizziness.

NEW MANAGEMENT.—Mr. Carl Crawford has leased the neat little barber shop located at the Fordham Hotel and has placed Mr. Sam'l Link in charge of same. Mr. Link is a first-class barber and can always be found at the shop ready to wait on his trade.

NEW PLACE.—Mr. Geo. T. Lyons is ready to wait on his customers in his new building, on Main near 10th. He now has one of the neatest saloons in the city.

FROM ONE CROP.—T. L. Emery, a farmer living in North Carolina, not far from the Virginia line, will make on his crop this year as much as the President of the United States makes in one year. He has the finest crop of corn ever seen in that section of the State, and his cotton and peanut crops are full and perfect. He says his income from this season's planting will certainly reach $50,000, and may pass that figure.

Latest Fashion Notes.

AN ALL WHITE TOILETTE.

All-white toilettes seem to grow more popular with every one as the season advances, and this beautiful costume is of oyster-white satin cloth. The bolero waist is elaborated with medallions; also velvet and cord ornaments which are now playing such an important part on women's gowns. The cuffs and belt are of velvet, and the medallions appear also on the sleeves. The inverted box-plaited skirt is securely stitched with Corticelli stitching silk and just below the stitching are arranged medallions in graduated sizes. The skirt which clings about the upper part of the figure flares at the bottom and has a slight sweep.

CHOLERA CURE

FOR HOGS AND POULTRY.

Farmers, you need no longer fear to raise and feed Hogs. We not only claim to cure Cholera, but we guarantee to prevent any such disease from breaking out among your Hogs or Poultry, if our remedy is used as directed. It is also fine for Brood Sows before farrowing, being a good blood medicine, which places them in a healthy condition. You cannot afford to be without this remedy if you expect to raise and feed Hogs, as you will more than make the price of the medicine in the extra gain in your hogs, and then you can rest assured they will have no disease. If they do we will refund the money. Write for testimonials.
